The bimonthly international magazine of architecture, design and visual communication

The bimonthly international magazine of architecture, design and visual communication l'Arca International is the first trilingual magazine (French, Italian and English) entirely devoted to modern-day architecture, design and visual communication as the main topics of each new issue. l'Arca International stands out for the quality of its meticulous editorial work and the high standard of its content selected by an international committee of architects, designers and experts from the art world. Each issue includes a theme section about the latest developments in the industry, a presentation of a selection of projects/finished works by international architects, critical writings by art/design experts, an overview of the products and technology of the future, and an in-depth analysis of the latest innovations in the field of design. Published by Sam MDO - Principality of Monaco, and on sale in Europe, Africa, United Arab Emirates, United States, Japan, South Korea, China and over 40 countries on subscription, l'Arca International also works closely with leading professional shows and exhibitions.

ADVERTISING

l'Arca International provides companies with the opportunity to communicate by publishing pages in the first part of the magazine. Advertisers can make the most of the magazine's outstanding print quality and colours to convey their message and showcase the distinctive features of their products. The range of formats available can cater for companies' differing information/communication requirements so they can tailor their campaigns to the products they are promoting..

ADVERTORIALS

L'Arca International's advertorials are created by the publishing staff in close collaboration with companies. The articles written in three languages (Italian, French and English) can be provided directly by the client him/herself or created by the publishing staff and translated to professional standards by native speakers. The page layout is designed by the publishing staff.

The advertorials include the company's logo, address, website and email. They may take the form of a single or double page. The material (background texts, high-resolution pictures, logo, address, email and website) should be sent directly to the publishing staff..
